

HOUSE SHUFFLES D. C. BILL BACK TO CONFERENCE

Battledoor and Shuttlecock Game With Appropriations Measure.

NEW COMMITTEE

Chairman Madden Makes Appearances—Inquiry Made About Amendment.

The game of battledoor and shuttlecock with the District appropriations bill in Congress went another inning yesterday when the House, by unanimous consent, agreed to send the bill back to conference.

Chairman Martin Madden, of the House Appropriations Committee, named himself and Representative Louis C. Crampton to succeed Representative Charles R. Davis, Minnesota, and Robert E. Evans, Nebraska, as conferees. The third member, Representative Ben Johnson, Kentucky, will continue to serve, it was announced.

Inquiry About Amendment. Representative William H. Stafford, Wisconsin, asked whether or not the Senate had acted on the amendment providing for the purchase of the Klinge Road Valley Park, the Piney Branch Valley Park and the Patterson tract. The amendment was defeated in the House, but he contended there was no record to show the Senate had acted on this matter. Lawrence Phipps, chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the bill in the Upper House, declared last night that the Senate had receded in this amendment and had not altered the bill in any way except to alter amendment No. 1. As none of the conferees were in the House at the time no one was able to answer Stafford's question.

Chairman Madden explained that the House did not want to swallow the Senate amendment without giving it careful consideration and expected to expedite the passage of the bill rather than retard it.

Provide for Investigation. The changes made by the Senate provide for an investigation to determine whether the fiscal relations between the Federal and District governments has produced a surplus of $5,000,000 which should be credited to the District.

The matter of a District surplus has been the subject of a controversy in both Houses of Congress for many years and in an attempt to dispose of it definitely Senator Jones, Washington, introduced a resolution providing for an investigation. Confusion arising in the House as to which committee should have jurisdiction in the matter delayed the resolution until the Senate passed the bill. The bill decided to overcome the difficulty by amending the bill to accomplish the same purpose, it was explained.

A second amendment added by the Senate makes the semi-annual payment of taxes in the District compulsory and provides a penalty for failure to pay on or before the first day in November and the first day in May.

FIVE CRAFT SEIZED FOR LIQUOR CARGO

NEW YORK, June 15.—Warrants charging them with conspiracy to violate the Federal prohibition laws were served today by government deputies upon the officers and crews of two ocean-going tugs and three barges seized last night by agents along the Northern Atlantic coast.

The seized craft are: Tugs H. S. Lockwood and Kentucky, of New London, Conn., seized off New York; barge City of Malden and City of Boston, taken at New Bedford, Mass.; and Lermond, at New Bedford, Mass. Col. William Hayward, United States district attorney, declared today that the vessels had taken 400 drums of alcohol, equivalent to 40,000 gallons, from the steamer Krona, in Narragansett Bay in March and May of this year. The Krona on another occasion took 200 drums of alcohol, arrived at Narragansett Bay from Havana with 2,000 cases of whiskey.

U. S. MUST MEET BILLS DURING JUNE FOR $755,000,000

Final Income Tax Payments Expected to Reach $300,000,000.

DEBT STILL DROPS

Total at End of This Month Month Will Be About $23,000,000,000.

Secretary Mellon has estimated that the final income tax payments for 1921 just made will approximate $300,000,000, but against this the Treasury must meet payments during June totalling $755,000,000.

The Treasury's bills for the month of June, itemized disclose $250,000,000 owing during the redeemed Victory 3 1/2's, redemption of which began Thursday; $350,000,000 owing for maturing Treasury certificates of indebtedness; and $155,000,000 interest on the public debt.

Therefore to meet these bills the government will need about $250,000,000 additional over and above existing balances with depositaries for the purpose of one-year 3 1/2's Treasury certificates have been issued.

Although these figures would seem to indicate that the government is doing business on the wrong side of the ledger, nevertheless the public debt is steadily diminishing.

If Secretary Mellon's $300,000,000 June income tax installment estimate for the purpose of one-year 3 1/2's tax returns for the last fiscal year will be approximately $2,000,000,000.

Up to date the government had paid more than $40,000,000 on the public debt for the fiscal year 1922. And the public debt total as of June 30, 1922, will probably be more than $23,000,000,000. The peak of public indebtedness was August 31, 1919, at which time the government owed in round numbers $26,596,000,000.

The latest general accounting of the public debt, May 31, discloses a bond total of $16,002,258,970. The total Liberty loan obligations now outstanding is $15,113,418,500. The remainder of this bond obligation represents Consols of 1920, the United States loan of 1925, three Panama bond issues, conversion bonds and post-savings bonds.

The two Victory note issues now total $2,571,504,450.

Treasury notes outstanding at present total $1,321,265,500. Treasury certificates, $1,738,749,000, and war savings securities, $670,687,978.

These items represent the total interest-bearing debt. The remaining debt including that on which interest has ceased or on noninterest-bearing totals $23,372,204.
